

REMARKS COMIC AND GRAVE

PACETIOUS.

"Is this your first appearance in a court of justice?" asked the Austin Recorder of a vagrant. "No, Judge, it is the last time that far—how is it with yourself?"—Texas Siftings.

Frank James is said to have moved into Kansas and gone into the lightning-rod business. This ends all the talk that he has decided to reform and live an honest life—Baltimore Herald.

The advance agent of a bad show has the best time. He can get out of town before his company performs. It is the manager who must stay and pay salaries and hear the compliments.—New Orleans Picayune.

The following is said to have occurred in a colored Austin oyster saloon: "What's yer lookin' for, Sam?" "I'm lookin' for dot letter you dropped jess now." "Don't worry about dat letter, fer yer can't get it. I've got my foot on it."—Texas Siftings.

No, we are pretty well satisfied that there is no companion to the language of flowers, known as the language of food. If there was such a book it would contain something like this: Hash—innocence; sausage—kiss; steak—tender thought; sausage—kiss; beans—calculus; fishballs—forget-me-not; etc.

Did you ever see a woman mail a letter? She will undertake to drop it into the box, then she draws it back and scans the directions; tries the stamp to see if it is on fast; scrutinizes the gummed side and runs her finger over it once or twice; then gives it out or two sudden jerks, which sends it rapidly into the box. She then peers in to see if it went through.—Old Hurraygraph.

"Now, the beauty of a paper collar," remarked the honorable member, coaxing a refractory pin, "is its economy. You wear one a week; then you turn it and wear it another week. Then you split it, and you have two new collars with one clean side, good for another week, each of 'em." And adjusting the dot scarf over the red flannel shirt he went down to dinner.—Hastings.

"I have promised you time and again that I would write you an essay on any leading subject of the day," said a literary gentleman entering a daily newspaper office and addressing the editor. "I have dashed in to dash off my promise." The editor did not look up. "I say that I have come in to throw off something. What shall I write about?" "Write about one line," said the editor.—Arkansas Traveler.

"Your honor, you've thirteen men on that jury," suggested a bystander to a justice of the peace in a neighboring town a day or two ago, where an unfortunate humber was on trial for vagrancy. "Bless my soul, that's true," said the venerable squire, adjusting his specs and casting a benignant look upon the thirteen good men and true; "Mr. Foreman, excuse one of the jury men."

"All right, your honor," responded the foreman promptly, as he reached for his hat and started out, amidst an audible snuffle from the lobby, "I excuse myself."—San Jose Mercury.

A stranger, who had been making some purchases in Mose Schauburg's emporium on Austin avenue, left his umbrella in the store, whereupon one of the clerks, who had only been in the store a few days, picked up the umbrella, and was about to run after the stranger and return it to him. "Let me see dot umbrella," said Mose, whereupon it was handed to him. "Py shimminy gracious, dot was a silk umbrella. Chust put dot away behind de calicos vare nopsdy vill stumple over it and break his neck." "But I want to give it back to the owner," remonstrated the clerk. "Py gracious, does you want to make a stranger suspect dot Austin merchants had got nopsiness cabacity. If you gives him dot umbrella pack he would lose all confidence in our pishness cabacity."—Texas Siftings.
